

It proved to be a weekend of personal milestones for the Knights' skipper - his assist on Josh Adkins's opener on the road on Saturday brought him his 300th career point for the Knights, while his first goal the following night - a seventh-minute power play marker - brought him his 150th marker for the club.

That strike set the ball rolling on a memorable night for the Knights and their fans, the hosts finding themselves 3-0 ahead after 20 minutes through further strikes from Lewis Baldwin and Adkins.

Brown added a second and the Knights' fourth just after the halfway mark, before five more goals came in a dominant third period, Oli Endicott, Matt Barron, Matt Haywood, Mac Howlett and, finally, Brown's third of the night, completing the romp.

The only blot on the night, came with the Knights unable to post a second shutout of the season when Cameron Hamill got the visitors on the board at 53.07.
